

Networking for Career Success

January 10th 10:00am-1:00pm

GPS Credit: 1

Skills Areas: Research-related, Personal Effectiveness

Location: UTM Career Centre Room 3131

HIGHLY recommended for students attending the Graduate Students Networking Night on January 18, 2012

Developing a network through building relationships is a key ingredient to career success, whether entering into academia, industry or government. The most intelligent and talented people still need a network of colleagues who can help them advance throughout their career. This session will focus on developing and maintaining an effective network. Participants will learn the dos and don'ts of networking, how to tailor networking efforts to different work situations, and how to keep a network alive throughout their careers. Throughout the session participants will practice the concepts, receive feedback and improve their performance.

As a result of attending this session, participants will be able to:

- identify and articulate a professional introduction, including key strengths relevant to the listener
- improve the delivery of the introduction
- identify methods to expand and maintain their network
- identify strategies for using their network to increase their career success
