Who We Are

The Academic Integrity Unit (AIU) in the Office of the Vice Principal, Academic and Dean is a neutral party and information resource that seeks to promote a culture of integrity and educational excellence. The primary services of the AIU include:

- Handling all allegations of undergraduate academic misconduct at UTM under the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters;
- Supporting students undergoing academic discipline proceedings;
- Educating students, staff and faculty on issues and processes related to academic integrity; and
- Promoting academic integrity and intellectual honesty at UTM.

Visit our website and follow us on Instagram for more useful information and resources!

COVID-19 Update

As the COVID-19 situation is evolving, please be advised that we have made modifications to the delivery of some of our services to better accommodate the community during this time.

- AIU staff will continue to be available by e-mail. Requests for teleconference meetings can be made over e-mail.
- All in-person academic integrity meetings with students will now take place virtually.
- AIU staff are not taking drop-in appointments at this time. Students with questions about academic integrity and/or appeals should reach out via e-mail.
- AIU staff are providing alternate means of resolving cases remotely.

The UCheck self-assessment is now required for all members of our community, including faculty members, librarians, staff, and students, each day they visit any one of the three U of T campuses or any other property owned or operated by U of T.
