Contract Period:	Five-month contract to begin immediately. Possibility of extension based on performance.
Hours:	10–15 hours/week
Remuneration:	$15.50/hour
Deadline to apply:	September 15, 2023

Job Description:

The Centre for Child Development, Mental Health, and Policy (CCDMP)'s vision is to foster every child's healthy development and potential for kindness, both locally and globally. To achieve our vision, we conduct research that advances a holistic understanding of children and generates services and practice solutions to enhance their potential and healthy development. Our centre unites child development and child mental health specialists from diverse backgrounds in an environment that inspires innovations in research, practice, and policy to promote the mental health and potential of all children.

This work-study student will assist in preparation of illustrations for a digital social-emotional development assessment task at the Centre for Child Development, Mental Health, and Policy at the University of Toronto Mississauga. The student will be expected to be proficient in using design software/programs to prepare illustrations depicting different scenarios for 3-8 year-old children. The student will work in close collaboration with the project leads and will learn essential skills to visually represent information. This position would be a fulfilling learning experience for those interested in the arts, illustrations, and developmental psychology. This is a remote work position.

Duties and Responsibilities

- Design and prepare illustrations for a social-emotional development assessment tool.
- Attend weekly or biweekly meetings with the project lead(s) and other research assistants working on the project and assist in creating and maintaining project documentation for different stakeholders.
- Provide design and/or design consultation on other project materials when needed.

Skills & Requirements

- Undergraduate student studying art, psychology or a related area
- Experience in designing illustrations via different platforms
- Experience in working in a previous art project/organization is an asset
- High attention to detail and problem-solving skills
- Comfortable working in a fast-paced environment with ability to prioritize work

Accessibility Considerations

- Spends the majority of the shift working at a computer
- Occurs in a remote environment

Application Materials

Please apply on CLNx (Job ID#22458 – Graphic Designer), sending in the following documents:

- Cover letter (including program and year of study, statement of interest and relevant experience, where you saw this job posting)
- Resume or curriculum vitae
- Academic transcript (unofficial screenshots from ROSI/ACORN are acceptable)
- Portfolio of relevant work

Interviewed students will be expected to provide 1–2 references speaking to their professional ability after the interview.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023.

We thank all applicants for their interest, however only those candidates selected for interview will be contacted.
