Credit/No Credit (CR/NCR) Deadline

The administrators at UTM are very much aware of the sacrifices and difficulties that students have faced, and continue to deal with, over the course of the global pandemic. At UTM, we have worked very hard to provide supports to students through bursaries and emergency grants, improved access to academic and financial aid counselors, health and well-being appointments and services/events as well as, of course, doing our best to provide educational opportunities and courses designed using best practices and the pedagogy of kindness throughout the curriculum.

The Credit/No Credit (CR/NCR) deadline at UTM was provided to all students in the Fall 2020 registration guidelines and can be located on the Office of the Registrar’s webpage here. The deadline given is a date consistent with UTM’s academic principles and remains true to how UTM views the use of the CR/NCR option. Changing the CR/NCR deadline at this time, retroactively, will be unfair to students who have adhered to the deadline, and could also encourage the academic misuse of the CR/NCR option.

Any student that has a compelling reason or case to make about why they have missed the CR/NCR deadline should take advantage of the petition process through the Office of the Registrar. Please see here for further details on how to submit a petition.
