

Learning for a Sustainable Future

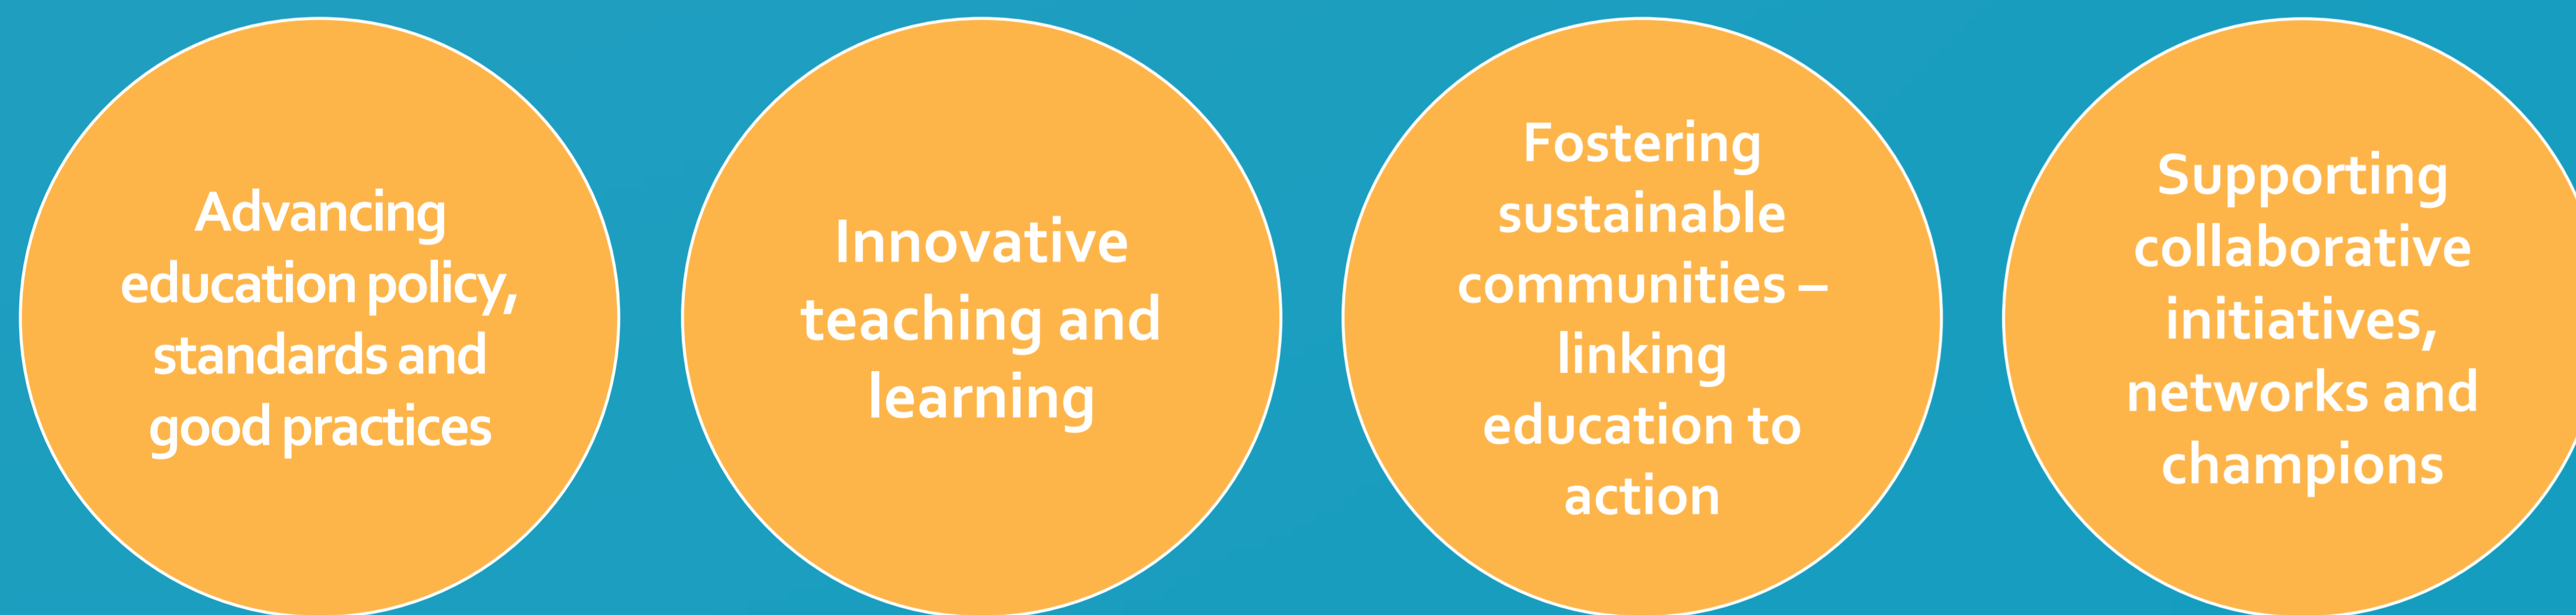

Sara Tonogai, B.Sc. | Program Assistant

About Learning for a Sustainable Future (LSF)

LSF is a non-profit organization that was created to integrate sustainability learning into Canada's education system. LSF's innovative programs are reshaping education policy and transforming learning methods, helping students address the increasingly difficult economic, social, and environmental challenges of the 21st century.

LSF's Strategic Priorities

Key Takeaways

Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) can empower learners to lead change in their communities and work towards a sustainable future

Challenges faced in the industry: Lack of educator training currently available for ESD, and the difficulty of transforming learning methods without policy support

Strengthened group facilitation, event planning, social media outreach and grant writing skills in a professional setting

Internship Accomplishments

Conducted an educational workshop on food security for students in grades 3-5

Assisted planning for LSF's fall Youth Forum that will engage students from 75 schools in the GTA

Developed social media marketing strategy/agenda that included 570 posts on 3 social media platforms

Led outreach communications to establish partnerships and help meet annual fundraising goals

Devised recommendations for improvements to LSF website and drafted new website materials

Selected student-led action projects to receive the Jack Layton Award for Youth Action in Sustainability

