

Takeaways

1. Any changes to sustainability reports require the consensus of all disciplines and management leads.
2. "Sustainability" may be defined differently across an organization. Sustainability reporting can aid in the identification of business strategies and possible risks.

Strategy

1. Stakeholder mapping and a materiality analysis can be useful tools in determining which information should be stressed in the report.
2. The business case for sustainability is always needed ( e.g. costs & benefits) .
