The Department of Political Science at UTM offers its students the chance to customize their degrees to their personal interests, to explore the latest topics in politics with the latest teaching methods, and to learn from internationally renowned scholars. Our faculty members have a diverse and exciting range of research interests and specializations, from International Relations to political economy, from Environmental Politics to the study of conflict and genocide. This exceptional strength in research permeates our curriculum, and we pride ourselves on the broad and stimulating range of courses we are able to offer our students. The Department strives to encourage graduates not only to become “thinkers,” but to develop an extensive portfolio of practical skills transferable to many careers: research analysis, communication, presentation, time management and writing skills.

The University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) Calendar provides information concerning admission policy, together with descriptions of the content of courses offered in Political Science and other disciplines.

This brochure is intended to be a supplement to the Calendar. Since it is published several months before the start of term, it cannot take account of late changes in course offerings or instructors. Details of any such changes will be announced on the UTM web page https://student.utm.utoronto.ca/calendar/calendar.pl/
Departmental Counselling

Detailed questions concerning individual courses should be discussed with the professors giving the courses. More general questions concerning choice of program and course should be discussed with the Chair or the Academic Counsellor.

Political Science Club

PSLA is a society that communes to help students enrolled in the Department of Political Science, are taking a course in Political Science, are interested in politics, and/or would like to apply to law school in the future. PSLA offers these students an out of classroom experience to immerse themselves into the world of politics and law. This is done through the execution of events and guest lectures [such as mooting opportunities, networking opportunities, trips to courthouses, trips to Ottawa, mock LSATs, etc.]. They also provide assistance to students for editing essays and studying for midterms and exams. Students can expect PSLA to offer resources, host events, and to be a channel of communication for any concerns/suggestions they may have about the Department of Political Science.

Registration at UTM

To register for 2019-20 courses students can obtain a Registration Information Guide from the Registrar’s office or by visiting the UTM web page at:

http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/reg

ACORN (Accessible Campus Online Resource Network)

Online enrolment services

Students have access to a variety of enrolment services through the U of T’s Accessible Campus Online Resource Network (ACORN). Withinestablished deadlines, students can use ACORN to add, wait-list and cancel (drop) courses, change sections, list current courses, obtain final grades, and confirm intention to graduate. Students using ACORN can view their entire academic record, request or declare programs (minors, majors, specialists), order transcripts, print tax forms, print invoices and view their financial account balances and detailed charge and payment information. Refer to the Registration Guide (www.utm.utoronto.ca/guides) and www.acorn.utoronto.ca for further information.

*Note: Enrolment periods may vary slightly between St.George and UTM.
Enrolling in St. George Courses

The Department of Political Science at the St. George Campus usually accommodates to UTM students wishing to enroll in its upper-year courses and in most instances gives UTM students equal priority with St. George students. The following restrictions apply to UTM students wishing to enroll in St. George courses:

You must have completed 4.0 credits at U of T Mississauga by the end of the Summer Session to be eligible to enroll in courses at other U of T campuses. If you register, but do not have 4.0 credits, you will be removed from the courses. Non-degree visiting students at U of T Mississauga may not take courses at other campuses.

If you want to enrol in courses offered at the St. George (downtown Toronto) campus or the Scarborough campus, check their respective enrolment instructions because many courses restrict enrolment and have limited space for U of T Mississauga students. You may add St. George and Scarborough campus courses from August 12 to September 19 (F & Y courses) and until January 15 (S courses).

POL 300-series (P) courses

Between July 9 to July 29, enrolment is limited to students registered in a POL program (Specialist, Joint Specialist, Major or Minor). Starting August 12, the courses will be open to any UTM student with the pre-requisite.

POL 400-series (PE) courses

For most 400-series courses during the first round of enrolment (May 15 to July 29) only 4th year POL Specialists and Joint POL Specialists may enrol; UTM students are given the same priority as St George students. A few courses are restricted to only St. George students.

Steven Bernstein is Professor, Associate Chair  and Graduate Director in the tri-campus Graduate Department of Political Science and Co-Director of the Environmental Governance Lab at the Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto. His research spans the areas of global governance and institutions, global environmental politics, non-state forms of governance, international political economy, and internationalization of public policy. Publications include Unsettled Legitimacy: Political Community, Power, and Authority in a Global Era (co-edited, 2009); Global Liberalism and Political Order: Toward a New Grand Compromise? (co-edited, 2007); A Globally Integrated Climate Policy for Canada (co-edited, 2007) and The Compromise of Liberal Environmentalism (2001); as well as many articles in refereed academic journals, including European Journal of International Relations, Science, Review of International Political Economy, Journal of International Economic Law, International Affairs, Canadian Journal of Policy Sciences, Regulation and Governance, and Global Environmental Politics. He was also a convening lead author and member of the Global Forest Expert Panel on the International Forest Regime and a consultant on institutional reform for the “Rio +20” UN Conference on Sustainable Development and its follow-up.

Associate Professor Edward Schatz

Degrees  Ph.D.  University of Wisconsin
M.A.   University of Wisconsin
B.A.    Yale University

Edward Schatz is an Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Toronto. He is interested primarily in identity politics, social transformations, social movements, anti-Americanism, and authoritarianism with a focus on the ex-USSR, particularly Central Asia. His publications include an edited volume, Political Ethnography (U. Chicago Press, 2009), and Modern Clan Politics (U. Washington Press, 2004), as well as articles in Comparative Politics, Slavic Review, International Political Science Review, Ethnic and Racial Studies, Nationalism and Ethnic Politics, and other academic journals. His current projects include a book on the United States as a symbol and actor in Central Asia and a study of authoritarianism in Central Asia. The American Political Science Association selected Professor Ed Schatz as the co-recipient of the Giovanni Sartori Book Award for his work, Political Ethnography: What Immersion Contributes to the Study of Power. The book, a collection of original essays edited by Professor Schatz, demonstrates how ethnography is uniquely suited for illuminating political science.

Associate Professor, Teaching Stream Mark Lip-

Degrees  Ph.D.  University of Toronto
M.A.   University of Delaware
B.A.    University of Delaware

Assistant Professor Emily Nacol

Degrees
- Ph.D. University of Chicago
- M.A. University of Chicago
- M.Phil. Cambridge University
- B.A. Wellesly College

Emily Nacol is a political theorist whose research interests lie primarily in early modern political thought and economy. She works especially on problems of risk and uncertainty in early modernity. Emily’s first book, An Age of Risk: Politics and Economy in Early Modern Britain, was published in 2016, and now she is working on a new project on politics, labor, and risk in eighteenth-century Britain. She has held research fellowships at Brown University’s Political Theory Project and the Cornell University Society for the Humanities, and at Toronto she looks forward to teaching a range of courses in the history of political thought as well as thematic courses on capitalism, commerce, and risk.

Professor David Wolfe

Degrees
- Ph.D. University of Toronto
- M.A. Carleton University
- B.A. Carleton University

Assistant Professor Randy Besco

Degrees
- Ph.D. Queen's University
- M.A. Queen's University
- B.A. University of Waterloo

Previously, Randy was a Visiting Research Fellow at the Center for Race, Ethnicity and Gender in the Social Sciences (REGSS) at Duke University. Randy's research draws on social-psychology to explore the role of identity in political behavior. His book project, Interests and Identities in Racialized Voting, examines what motivates racialized voters to support racialized candidates. Canadian Journal of Political Science, "Rainbow Coalitions or Inter-Minority Conflict" explores similar issues. Randy's current research focuses on the way that attacks and criticisms of identities affect motivation for political action.

Assistant Professor Martha Balaguera

Degrees
- Ph.D. University of Massachusetts
- M.A. University of Essex
- B.A. National University of Colombia

Martha Balaguera comes to UTM from the University of California San Diego, where she was a Visiting Fellow at the Center for US-Mexican Studies in the academic year 2017-2018. Martha’s work focuses on social movements in violent contexts, with an emphasis on transborder forms of activism in the Americas from a feminist perspective. Her current project examines how people on the ground, especially women, LGBTQ+ movements, and grassroots communities respond with everyday practices of care and political organizing to forced displacement and intensified border enforcement in the context of transit migration across Mexico. Currently, she is teaching Topics in Comparative Politics: Collective Action and Political Change.

Assistant Professor Alexander Reisenbichler

Degrees  Ph.D. George Washington University
M.A. George Washington University
B.A. University of Leipzig

Alexander Reisenbichler is an assistant professor of West European politics at UTM. His work explores the politics of housing, financial, and labor markets in advanced economies, with regional specializations in Western Europe and the United States. Alexander’s current research investigates how public policies shape the political economies of homeownership in the United States and Germany from a comparative, historical perspective. For this research, he has received support from the Horowitz Foundation for Social Policy, the Free University Berlin's Program for Advanced German and European Studies, and the Johns Hopkins University's American Institute for Contemporary German Studies. Parts of this project have also been recognized by the American Political Science Association’s European Politics & Society section (Best Paper Award in 2017). His work has appeared in Politics & Society, the Review of International Political Economy, Foreign Affairs, and Cityscape.

Assistant Professor Shivaji Mukherjee

Degrees  Ph.D., M.Phil. Yale
M.A. University of Michigan
M.A. Jawaharlal Nehru University
B.A. Hindu College, University of Delhi

Shivaji’s research interests lie at the intersection of state formation, civil conflict, and political economy of development. He worked as a Research Assistant at the Institute for Conflict Management in New Delhi, and then did an MA in Political Science at University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and a PhD in political science at Yale University. His dissertation is on the Maoist insurgency in India, and uses data gathered during field work, archival data and quantitative analysis of sub national datasets to demonstrate that colonial institutions of indirect rule selected by the British set up the structural conditions for post colonial insurgency through path dependent mechanisms. Shivaji hopes to work in the future on state formation, the use of different kinds of counter insurgency strategy by the Indian state, and also various aspects of the Maoist insurgency, and other ethnic insurgencies in India.

Professor Ronald Beiner

Degrees  D. Phil. Balliol, Oxford University
B.A. McGill University

Professor Aurel Braun

Degrees  Ph.D. London School of Economics
M.A. University of Toronto
B.A. University of Toronto

Professor Richard Day

Degrees
- Ph.D. University of London
- B.A., M.A., Dip. R.E.E.S. Toronto

Assistant Professor Noel Anderson

Degrees
- Ph.D. Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- B.A. University of Toronto

Anderson’s research explores external intervention in internal conflicts, limited war, and counterinsurgency. His current book project develops a theory of competitive intervention in civil war to explain temporal variation in the global prevalence and average duration of intrastate conflict. Some of his other research examines counterinsurgency in Somalia, the relationship between narcotics and civil war, and South African military strategy during the Cold War. Recent articles have appeared in Political Science Research and Methods, Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, and Survival, among other venues. Prior to joining UTM, Anderson earned a Ph.D. in Political Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he was affiliated with the Security Studies Program. His research has been supported by SSHRC, the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation, and the Smith Richardson Foundation, among others.

Degrees
- M.A., Ph.D. Columbia University
- B.A. Harvard University

Peter H. Solomon, Jr. (PhD Columbia University) is Professor of Political Science, Law and Criminology, University of Toronto. He specializes in post-Soviet politics and in the politics of law and courts in various countries, including Canada and the USA. Author of Soviet Criminologists and Criminal Policy (1978); Criminal Justice Policy: From Research to Reform (1983), Soviet Criminal Justice under Stalin (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1996 [a Russian-language edition Sovetskaia iustitsiia pri Staline was published by “ROSSPEN” in 1998 and reprinted in 2008]); Reforming Justice in Russia, 1864-1996: Power, Culture, and the Limits of Legal Order (Armonk, NY: Sharpe, 1997), editor and contributor; Courts and Transition in Russia: The Challenge of Judicial Reform (Boulder CO: Westview Press, 2000) with Todd Foglesong; Crime, Criminal Justice, and Criminology in Post-Soviet Ukraine (2001) with Todd Foglesong. Professor Solomon’s current research includes: judicial and legal reform in contemporary Russia and Ukraine; and law and courts in authoritarian and transitional states. He has been an active participant in judicial reform projects, including the Canada-Russia Judicial Partnership (2000-2008) and the Canada-Ukraine Judicial Cooperation Project (2006-2014), both funded by CIDA. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Institut prava i publichnoi politiki (Moscow) and the editorial boards of three journals, and a former Director of the Centre for Russian and East European Studies at the Munk School of Global Affairs.
Professor Emeritus Graham White

Degrees
Ph.D. McMaster University
M.A. McMaster University
B.A. York University

Graham White was born in Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, but grew up in Toronto where he attended St. Michael's College School and was one of the first students at the Keele Campus of York University. After earning a combined honours degree in Economics and Political Science at York he went to McMaster University for graduate work in Political Science. In 1979 he completed a PhD at McMaster; his thesis was on long-term voting patterns in Ontario. In 1976, he became one of the first persons accepted into the Ontario Legislative Internship Program, run jointly by the Legislature and the Canadian Political Science Association. In 1978 he returned to Queen's Park to work in the Clerk's Office. Over the next six years, he provided procedural advice and administrative support to a number of legislative committees including the Public Accounts Committee, the Procedural Affairs Committee, the Select Committee on the Ombudsman and the Select Committee on Pensions. He also spent some time serving at ‘the table’ in the legislative chamber.

In 1984, he accepted a position in the Political Science Department at the University of Toronto’s Erindale College (now the University of Toronto Mississauga). He holds the rank of Full Professor and served as Chair of the Department for some time. Since the late 1980s he has been visiting the Northwest Territories, Nunavut and the Yukon regularly and writing about politics there. In addition to numerous articles in academic journals, he has written or edited 12 books, including The Ontario Legislature: A Political Analysis; Inside the Pink Palace; The Government and Politics of Ontario; Northern Governments in Transition and several editions of Politics: Canada. His book with David Cameron, Cycling into Saigon: The Conservative Transition in Ontario, was shortlisted for the Donner Foundation’s award for the best book in Canadian public policy in 2001. His most recent published book is Cabinets and First Ministers; he has recently completed the manuscript for a book about the creation of Nunavut (co-authored with Jack Hicks).

He is currently at work on two books: one on the regulatory and wildlife management boards established under the settled comprehensive land claims settlements in the territorial North and one on provincial and territorial cabinet decision-making processes since the 1970s.

Professor White has formerly served as President of the Canadian Political Science Association and currently serves as co-editor of the Canadian Journal of Political Science.

Sessional Lecturers

George Wootten

Degrees
Ph.D. Queen’s University (in progress)
M.A. Univeristy of Western Ontario
B.A. Univeristy of Waterloo

George Wootten is a PhD candidate (ABD) in Political Studies at Queen’s University. He has been teaching at UTM since 2005 – teaching POL 336 (Ontario Politics) and POL 369 (Media and Politics). Broadly speaking, he is interested in the different levels of Canadian politics (federal, provincial and local), as well as comparative political communication. More specifically, he is interested in the politics of the blame process - how blame is generated, assigned and avoided in Canadian political life.

Justin Bumgardner

Degrees
Ph.D. University of Illinois
M.A. University of Illinois
B.A. Lyon College

Dr. Justin Bumgardner earned a Ph.D. in political science from the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. He specializes in international relations, with a particular interest in war and conflict. He has done research and published in the areas of military conflict management of enduring rivalries and humanitarian intervention. He has been recognized multiple times for the high quality of his teaching.

David Pond

Degrees
Ph.D. University of Toronto
M.A. University of Western Ontario
B.A. Univeristy of Western Ontario

Spyridon Kotsovilis obtained his Ph.D. in Political Science from McGill, where he was the Neporany doctoral fellow, and also trained in Complex Systems at the Santa Fe Institute, New Mexico. His research interests include IR theory, international crises, revolutions and mobilization dynamics, democratization, nationalism and ethnic conflict, as well as quantitative/research methods. He is currently working on a book manuscript based on his dissertation, which examines contentious political action from a networks perspective. He has published and widely disseminated his work in major conferences and invited talks on international relations, comparative politics and advanced methodologies. He has previously taught at McGill and University of Toronto Scarborough, and has worked with Medecins Sans Frontieres/Doctors Without Borders, where he is an elected member of the MSF Canada Association.

Katherine Bullock is a Lecturer in the Department of Political Science, University of Toronto at Mississauga. Her teaching focus is political Islam from a global perspective, and her research focuses on Muslims in Canada, their history, contemporary lived experiences, political and civic engagement, debates on the veil, and media representations of Islam and Muslims. She was the editor of the American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences from 2003 - 2008, the Vice-President of The Association of Muslim Social Scientists (North America) from 2006 - 2009. Her publications include: Muslim Women Activists in North America: Speaking for Ourselves and Rethinking Muslim Women and the Veil: Challenging Historical and Modern Stereotypes which has been translated into Arabic, French, and Turkish. She is also President of The Tesselate Institute, a non-profit research institute, and of Compass Books, dedicated to publishing top-quality books about Islam and Muslims in English. Originally from Australia, she lives in Oakville with her husband and children. She embraced Islam in 1994.

Arnd Jurgensen was born in Germany and moved to the US in his teens, where he completed his BA at New York University. He came to Canada to do his M.A. and Ph.D. at the University of Toronto in the field of Comparative Politics of Developing Countries. He spent a year doing research for his doctoral dissertation in Venezuela and has traveled widely throughout Latin America, Asia and Africa. He has taught at U.B.C., Wilfred Laurier University, McMaster University and the Faculty of Applied Sciences and Engineering at the University of Toronto, before coming to U.T.M.. He has written on topics ranging from regime change and democratization in Latin America to sustainable development and U.S. foreign policy.

Kristin Cavoukian holds a doctorate in Political Science from the University of Toronto. Her research focuses on state-diaspora relations, and how states encourage the formation of loyal and compliant organizations of their compatriots abroad. Her areas of interest include the former Soviet Union, the South Caucasus, the intersection of nationalism and gender, and the legacy of Soviet nationalities policies for post-Soviet nation building. She has taught courses on ethnicity and nationalism, global politics, and comparative politics.

Aslan Amani (PhD, LSE, 2013; MSc, LSE, 2009, Hon. B.A., University of Toronto, 2008) received his PhD in political theory from the Department of Government at the London School of Economics and Political Science. Aslan’s PhD dissertation (Is Democratic Multiculturalism Really Possible?) examined the normative interplay of democratic theory with multiculturalism. He is currently completing a book manuscript on democratic multiculturalism. Aslan has taught political science and political theory at the University of Toronto Mississauga, McMaster University, Trent University and the London School of Economics and Political Science.

100-Level Courses

100-level POL courses are designed to introduce students to different approaches to studying politics and to some of the theories and concepts employed by political scientists. No 100-series course is a prerequisite for upper-year POL courses.

POL111H5F - Canada in Comparative Perspective
Examines major facets of Canadian government and politics within a broad comparative context asking what is different or unique about Canada and what resembles political systems elsewhere in the world, primarily western industrialized countries. Comparative analysis is used to foster a deeper understanding of Canada and its politics.
Exclusion: POL224Y1

POL112H5S - Democracy in Theory and Practice
Examines current ideas about what constitutes 'democracy' and how real-world political systems measure up to democratic ideals. Through examination of formal government institutions and informal political practices, assessments will be made of the strengths and weaknesses in modern democracies. Case studies may be drawn from Canada or from other countries which claim to be democratic.
Exclusion: POLA51H3

POL113H5F&S - Ideas and Ideologies
In this course students are introduced to basic concepts in politics such as authority, sovereignty, legitimacy, citizenship, jurisdiction, civil rights and civil liberties. These concepts are then used to examine the fundamental differences between major political ideologies, such as democracy, liberalism, socialism, fascism, conservatism, anarchism and communism.
POL114H5F&S - Politics in the Global World
Examines the politics of globalization in its various forms (economics, cultures, environmental and military) as well as the consequences of, management of and resistance to, globalization. Addresses topics such as whether globalization challenges the capacity of national societies and their governments to deal with global issues such as the environment, redistribution of wealth, security and human rights, both within countries and across borders.

POL115H5 - Evidence and Argument in the Study of Politics
To understand politics in our information-abundant world, we need ways to make sense of the political information that surrounds us. In this course, we ask what makes for good evidence and what makes for convincing argument. We do so by raising a series of weekly topics on which there is a mass of available information - topics like climate change, political correctness, populism, and democracy promotion, among others - and discussing fundamentally different perspectives on each topic. In the end, students will develop a fuller sense of what constitutes a well-argued and evidence-supported analysis of the political.

200 level courses require standing in either one full 100 level political science course or at least 4.0 credits.

POL200Y5Y - Political Theory
The development of political thought to the 17th century. Among the theorists examined are Plato, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Hobbes and Locke.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits

POL203Y5Y - Politics and Government of the United States
A comparative study of the development of American government and the main elements of the American political tradition; the structure and functioning of executives, legislatures, courts, bureaucracies, parties and pressure groups in federal and state government; characteristic processes of American politics such as voting, bargaining and regulation; and resultant patterns of public policy.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits

POL208Y5Y - Introduction to International Relations
Themes: What causes war? How can peace be achieved and sustained? What is the nature of international society and order? What trends are emerging in international affairs as we begin a new century? The main goal of the course is to provide the conceptual and theoretical tools to understand and study world affairs in order to address these questions. Will critically assess the nature and role of actors, institutions, and political and economic forces in shaping world events.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits

POL214Y5Y - Canadian Government and Politics
Canada’s political system: its key governmental institutions, especially cabinet and Parliament; federalism; the Charter of Rights and Freedoms; political parties and voting behaviour; ideologies and political culture, public opinion and pressure groups; regionalism and Quebec. Useful as a general course on Canada and as a foundation for more specialized study.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits
POL218Y5Y - Introduction to Comparative Politics
An introduction to the main themes, concepts and methods in comparative politics. Comparative politics compares the ways people and institutions interact, in different countries and regions of the world (including both developing and developed), to produce what we call "politics." The course brings to bear different interpretive frameworks (political culture, political economy, identity politics, and institutional analysis) to help us understand this interaction. Topics include: the formation, development and eventual decay of political institutions such as the nation-state, political regimes, parties, party systems and local governments; the ideas and interests shaping political behaviour and the reasons why, and the ways in which groups mobilize politically.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits

POL242Y5Y - Methods
This course offers an introduction to political science research methods. The course will cover basic approaches to political science, the choices that researchers have to make when designing their research and basic methods of analysis for both qualitative and quantitative data. Topics include: validity and reliability, levels of measurement, questionnaire design, experiments, elite interviews, participant observation and policy evaluation.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits

JPE251H5F - Introduction to Canadian Environmental Law and Policy I
This course serves as an introduction to environmental policy and law in Canada. The primary intent is to provide an overview of the political context in which environmental policy and law is made and implemented. The emphasis in this course will be on environmental policy. The course begins with an outline of the Canadian parliamentary system and policymaking process. A series of case studies, from biodiversity to climate change, are then explored as a way to see the policy process in action.
Prerequisites: 1.0 POL credit/4.0 credits
Exclusions: JPE 250Y5, POL 250Y5, ENV 250Y5, ENV 320H1
Prerequisites: 3.5 Credits JPE/POL/ENV

JPE252H5S - Introduction to Canadian Environmental Law and Policy II
This course builds on the themes and concepts introduced in JPE251H5. The primary intent is to provide an overview of the political context in which environmental policy and law is made and implemented. The emphasis in this course will be on environmental law.
Exclusion: JPE 250Y5, POL 250Y5, ENV 250Y5, ENV 320H1
Prerequisites: JPE 251H5

300 level courses are advanced courses designed for 3rd and 4th year students who have completed several courses in a number of fields in Political Science. They are not appropriate for students in 2nd year (that is students who have not completed at least 8 courses). Students must not enroll in courses for which they do not have the prerequisites. Prerequisites will be rigorously enforced.

POL301H5F - Topics in Political Theory: Politics and Education
The course is an examination of several distinct approaches to the relationship of politics and education, all thematically grounded in a detailed rereading of Plato’s Republic. Although it is assumed that everyone has read the Republic before, a rereading of this complex text is required and central to the successful completion of the course.
Prerequisite: POL200Y

POL302Y5Y - Politics of Western Europe and the European Union
Political institutions and processes in Western Europe, with special reference to Britain, France, Germany and Italy. Evolution of the European Union, its institutions and policy-making system.
Exclusion: POL 207Y1, POLB93H3
Prerequisite: 2.0 POL credits, including POL218Y5
POL303Y5Y - The Politics of Islam
The course examines the theory and practice of Islamic politics in the modern era. It also looks at Western foreign policy and Western cultural reactions to politics in the Muslim world. The aim is to acquaint students with the diversity within the Muslim world and help them better understand some of the most pressing political issues raised by contemporary Islam.
Prerequisites: any 2.0 POL credits
Exclusions: POL300Y5, POL300Y1

POL304Y5S Politics of South Asia
This course surveys systems of government and political processes across South Asia, with attention to state formation, nationalism, ethnicity, democracy vs. authoritarian forms of governance, social movements, political violence, insurgencies, political economy, corruption, and other important issues affecting South Asian states currently. The focus will be mostly on India and Pakistan and possibly some of the other countries in South Asia. Exclusion: POLC09H3
Prerequisite: POL 208Y5/POL208Y1/POL 218Y5 or permission of instructor based on strong interest in South Asia

POL309Y5Y - The State, Planning and Markets
A study of the political economy of planning and markets, the history of both forms of organization, the political philosophies of liberalism and Marxism upon which they have been based, and the issues of economic efficiency, justice and democratic control in capitalism and socialism.
Prerequisite: POL200Y

POL310Y5Y - Managing International Military Conflict
Analysis of different aspects of conflict management, including security regimes, U.N. peacekeeping, mediation, bilateral as well as multilateral techniques.
Exclusion: POLC09H3
Prerequisite: POL208Y5

POL317H5F Comparative Public Policy and Administration
Major theories and concepts in the fields of public administration and public policy, drawing on the experience of advanced industrialized nations.
Exclusion: POL317Y5
Prerequisite: POL203Y/218Y/302Y/309Y/353Y

POL320Y5Y - Modern Political Thought
The development of political thought in the 18th and 19th centuries, including Rousseau, Burke, Hume, Kant, Hegel, the English Utilitarians (Bentham and J.S. Mill), Marx and Nietzsche.
Prerequisites: POL200Y

POL327Y5Y - Comparative Foreign Policy (SSc)
Comparative study of the foreign policies of Russia/USSR, the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.
Prerequisites: POL208Y5

POL336Y5Y – Ontario Politics
Examines the influence of social and economic forces on contemporary Ontario politics, with emphasis on major recent changes in the Ontario political system. Topics include: political parties and elections, structures of governance (cabinet, legislature, etc.), local government and selected public policy issues.
Exclusion: POL336H1
Prerequisite: POL100Y5/102Y1/(110H5, 111H5)/214Y5
POL340Y5Y – International Law
International law as an instrument of conflict resolution. Recognition, sovereign immunity, subjects of international law, and jurisdiction are some of the subjects examined.
Exclusion: POL 340Y1
Prerequisite: POL208Y5

POL343Y5Y - Politics of Global Governance
Examines the changing nature and forms of governance in the international system. It explores why and how international institutions and organizations arise; the goals, roles, and effectiveness of institutions in managing global problems and creating order and stability, and whether the rules and norms created by such institutions alter state behaviour, influence domestic policies, and/or challenge state sovereignty.
Exclusion: POL 343Y1, POLC87H3
Prerequisite: POL208Y5

POL346Y5Y - Urban Politics
This course examines urban politics and policy problems in both a Canadian and comparative context. Students will be introduced to the key theories and concepts of urban politics scholarship as well as the important policy issues facing contemporary cities such as globalization, sustainability, immigration, and regionalism.
Prerequisites: Any 2.0 POL credits.

POL355Y5Y – Multiculturalism and Citizenship
How are laws, policies, and social norms affected by the overwhelmingly multicultural character of contemporary societies? This course examines how the realities of contemporary multiculturalism have reshaped civic life, both in Canada and in other societies. The course will attempt to cover both empirical and theoretical-normative approaches to these issues.
Exclusion: POLC58H3
Prerequisite: Any 2.0 POL credits

JEP356H5S - Environmental Justice
Environmental Justice is about the fair treatment of all people in the creation and implementation of environmental policies. It also provides a critical framework to analyze and understand inequalities of an environmental kind. These inequalities are often based around identities of race, class and gender, such that marginalized groups are made to bear the burden of environmental externalities like pollution. Why are First Nations in Canada less likely to have access to safe drinking water? Why are industrial plants often in low-income neighborhoods? After critical examinations of the theories and foundations of environmental justice, this course uses a case study approach to understanding the concepts and the ways in which it has shaped modern society.
Prerequisite: 8.5 credits

POL368Y5Y - Women, Gender and Politics
An introduction to gender and politics that examines women as political actors and their activities in formal and grassroots politics. The course also explores the impact of gender in public policy and how public policies shape gender relations.
Exclusion: POL 351Y1, POL 450H1
Prerequisite: 2.0 POL credits

POL369Y5Y - Media and Politics
The role of the mass media in shaping (perceptions of) the political world and in enhancing or diminishing democracy; government regulation of media; the question of bias in political reporting; media ownership and concentration; the political significance of ‘new’ media; the interplay of media technology and politics.
Prerequisites: 2.0 POL credits/2.0 CCIT/VCC credits
Exclusions: POL213Y
Enrolment in 400-series courses is restricted to Political Science Specialists and Joint Specialists. Priority will be given to students with 14.0 credits or more.

1) 400-series POL courses are limited to POL Specialists and Joint Specialists;
2) No POL Specialist may take more than 2.0 POL credits at the 400-level (1.0 for Joint Specialists).

POL401Y5 Senior Major Research Paper
This course provides students with the basic skills and knowledge necessary to complete a major independent research paper. The course will have a broad theme (power, equality, justice, federalism, etc.) and students will pursue a research project of their own interest that relates to the course theme. This Y course will meet weekly in the first semester and every other week in the winter semester. Under the course instructors’ supervision, students will identify potential research questions, acquire methodological and research skills appropriate for addressing the research questions, and conduct primary research. Students will present their paper in an open forum late in the second term. This course is intended for students with a strong academic background who intend to pursue graduate studies.
Prerequisite: Enrollment limited to POL Specialists, Joint Specialists and POL Majors with at least 6.0 POL credits and P.I.
Restrictions:
1) 400-series POL courses are limited to POL Specialists and Joint Specialist and

POL438H5S - Topics in Comparative Politics:
Content of course will vary from year to year. This year’s topic will be (Race, Conflict, and Violence): The Politics of Vice

POL440Y5Y – Politics and Governments of Eastern Europe
Comparative analysis of the former Communist states of Eastern Europe and the post-Communist successor states.
Prerequisite: POL204Y5/208Y5/354Y5

POL443Y5S - Topics in Comparative Politics
This course approaches critically dominant assumptions about the rational obstacles, inevitable decline, and unlikely success of collective action. Through the in-depth study of single cases, we will grapple with the following questions:
What are some of the main ways in which people organize and mobilize in pursuit of collective goals? Under what conditions is collective action possible?
What is the relationship between collective action and political change? How is success defined, and when is collective action successful? We will address these questions in comparative and global perspective.
Prerequisite: POL218Y5

POL476H5F - Topics in Political Economy
This seminar course explores the relationship between democracy and capitalism through the interdisciplinary lenses of political economy and political theory.
Restrictions:
1) 400-series POL courses are limited to POL Specialists and Joint Specialists; 2) No POL Specialist may take more than 2.0 POL credits at the 400-level (1.0 for Joint Specialists).

‘The ideas of economists and political philosophers, both when they are right and when they are wrong, are more powerful than is commonly understood. Indeed, the world is ruled by little else.’
JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES
POL486Y5Y - Topics in International Relations: Conflict, Violence, War and Peace
This is a fourth-year seminar addressed to specialists in Political Science who wish to study in depth war and its dimensions. The course aims to provide a comprehensive, systematic survey on the literature towards understanding this complex phenomenon.
Restrictions:
1) 400-series POL courses are limited to POL Specialists and Joint Specialists;
2) No POL Specialist may take more than 2.0 POL credits at the 400-level (1.0 for Joint Specialists).

POL484Y5 Topics in Political Thought : Tragedy and Political Theory
Since the nearly simultaneous flourishing of politics, drama and philosophy in 5th century B.C.E. Athens, commentators have speculated about potential interconnections between these three enduring legacies. This is a course in which we explore such prominent themes as justice, tyranny, domination and rebellion, as presented and examined in several classic plays and works of political theory.
Restrictions:
1) 400-series POL courses are limited to POL Specialists and Joint Specialists;
2) No POL Specialist may take more than 2.0 POL credits at the 400-level (1.0 for Joint Specialists).

The Specialist Program in History and Political Science allows students to do work in two closely related disciplines. Students are encouraged to plan their programs so as to take advantage of the opportunity to do work in related courses consecutively or concurrently.

Joint work in Political Science and another discipline provides an interesting course of studies for many students. The Major Program in Political Science has been designed for such students.

The Major Program introduces students to some of the principal fields within the discipline and requires some work in Political Theory. Some appropriate combinations are Political Science and History, Political Science and Sociology, Political Science and Management, and Political Science and a language.

Students whose chief interest is in another discipline may wish to select Political Science as a secondary area of interest and to enroll in the Minor program in Political Science.

Students specializing in a discipline other than Political Science may wish to take one or more political science courses to complement their studies in their chosen discipline. For example, a student specializing in psychology may take one of the 100-level courses in Political Science to acquire some idea of the nature and scope of the discipline. A student interested in the Slavic languages may wish to complement work in languages and literature with work in Soviet or Eastern European politics and government. A student taking a theme program such as Urban Studies or Canadian may select political science courses that will round out an “approved area of study.”
POLITICAL SCIENCE
MAJOR Program Plan

1ST YEAR
Courses offered include POLS113H, 113XH, 115SH and 114SH.
Choose a program of study (Subject POST) once you complete 4.0 credits. Use the degree explorer/Planner and the Academic Calendar to plan your degree.
Start strong and get informed with uTMOONE and LAUNCH through the Office of student transition. Join a KASER Peer Facilitated Study Group.

2ND YEAR
Most courses offered are POLS120H and POLS121H. Over the course of your degree, attain 1.0 credits from two of three fields of study in political science. View the academic calendar for additional degree requirements.
Throughout your undergraduate degree:
- Use the degree explorer to ensure you complete your degree and program requirements.
- See the Office of the Registrar and the Political Science Department for guidance.

3RD OR FINAL YEAR
- Attain at least 2.0 credits at the 300 level.
- Consider applying for the Research Opportunity Program (ROP) course POLS598Y. Visit the ECO website for ROP course prerequisites.
- Attend the RACAP’s P.A.R.T. to enhance your research skills.
- Interested in current events and raising student awareness of key issues? Write for The Medium — the source of news for UTMM students. Why not run for an office and build your skills while getting involved?
- Skills are transferable to any job, regardless of where you develop them. Need to strengthen your presentation skills? Consider a role as a RACAP facilitated study group leader.

HOW TO USE THIS PROGRAM PLAN
Read through each year. Investigate what appeals to you here and in any other Program Plans that apply to you. Visit www.utm.utoronto.ca/program-plans to create your own plan using My Program Plan. Update your plan yearly.

4TH OR FINAL YEAR
- Why not gain some hands-on practical work experience? Visit listings for national and international internship opportunities on the UTM Political Science website.
- Log on to Acorn and request graduation.
- Establishment of a professional presence on social media (e.g., LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter or blogs).
- Learn about local issues. Consider a CFE Alternative Reading Week (ARW) to become engaged with the local community.
- Earn credits overseas! Study for a summer, term or year at one of 320 universities. The Political Science department has identified 7 partners who are most relevant to their students. Speak to the ECO for details about Course Based Exchange and funding.
- Why not work abroad? Read up on worldwide employment trends and industry outlooks through Global. Attend the Go Global Expo. See if you are eligible for International Experience Canada.

- What are your next steps after graduation?
- Market your skills to employers. Get your resume critiqued at the CC. Attend the CC Workshop Now That I’m Graduating What’s Next?
- Write a strong application for further education. Attend the CC’s Mastering the Personal Statement workshop.
