CRIMINOLOGY, LAW & SOCIETY (HBA)

Department of Sociology

Criminology, Law and Society (CLS) examines relationships between legal systems, criminal behaviour, and social institutions. CLS prepares students for careers in law, policing, corrections, advocacy, and policy by exploring key questions: How do social factors influence crime patterns? What factors shape different experiences in the justice system? Students develop analytical, writing, and research skills by engaging with research on criminal behaviour and legal processes. The curriculum covers Indigenous legal traditions, youth justice, hate crimes, vigilantism, white collar crime, law enforcement strategies, and debates about policing. CLS provides academic foundations for understanding the complex challenges of crime and justice in society.

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR TIME AT UTM!

We want to help you maximize your university experience, so we've pulled together information and interesting suggestions to get you started, although there are many more! #### FUTURE STUDENTS

Admission to UTM

All program areas require an Ontario Secondary School Diploma, or equivalent, with six Grade 12 U/M courses, or equivalent, including English. The admission average is calculated with English plus the next best five courses. The approximate average required for admission is mid- to high-70s. More information is available at utm.utoronto.ca/viewbook.

NOTE: During the application process, applicants will select Social Sciences admissions category, but will not officially be admitted to a formal program of study (Specialist, Major, and/or Minor) until after first year.

Sneak Peek

Discover our Indigenous Studies offerings: SOC228H5 Introduction to Indigenous Studies; SOC358H5 Indigenous People: Legal Orders and Law; SOC388H5 Race and Indigeneity; SOC415H5 Senior Seminar in Indigenous Studies, SOC451H5 Settler Colonialism and Health; SOC455H5 Comparative Indigenous Politics.

Our department spearheads the Peel Social Lab (PSL): a lab dedicated to gathering, storing, analyzing and sharing data on the UTM and broader Peel region, which fosters experiential learning opportunities for students. By incorporating data gathering efforts into undergraduate sociology classes, the PSL gives students hands-on experience in research design and analysis conducted on Peel region society. Such work provides students with valuable research skills, while helping students establish contacts within the wider Peel region.
