

HISTORY (HBA)

Department of Historical Studies

History explores the human past, from world-changing events to individual lives, helping us understand who we are and how we shape our world. Studying history deepens our awareness of both past and present, offering lessons to improve society. It sharpens critical thinking and prepares students for careers in law, politics, business, and more. The History program offers breadth and depth. Our award-winning faculty offer courses on Canada, Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, and the United States. Our faculty also teach thematic courses on imperialism, colonialism and nationalism; war and politics; cultural history; religion and society; the environment; class, gender, and ethnicity; as well as migration and immigration.

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR TIME AT UTM!

We want to help you make the most of your university experience, so we've pulled together information and interesting suggestions to get you started, although there are many more! As you review the chart on the inside pages, note that many of the suggestions need not be restricted to the year they are mentioned. In fact, activities such as joining an academic society, engaging with faculty and seeking opportunities to gain experience should occur in each year of your study at UTM. Read through the chart and create your own plan using My Program Plan found at www.utm.utoronto.ca/program-plans

FUTURE STUDENTS

Admission to UTM

All program areas require an Ontario Secondary School Diploma, or equivalent, with six Grade 12 U/M courses, or equivalent, including English. The admission average is calculated with English plus the next best five courses. The approximate average required for admission is mid- to high-70s. More information is available at utm.utoronto.ca/viewbook.

NOTE: During the application process, applicants will select the Humanities admissions category, but will not officially be admitted to a formal program of study (Specialist, Major, and/or Minor) until after first year.

Sneak Peek

HIS104H5: A History of Here. This writing-intensive course introduces students to the histories of Mississauga, the Region of Peel, and the University of Toronto as well as to the research and writing skills that are part of the historian's craft. We focus on Indigenous peoples, colonialism, immigration, and institution-building, questioning and complicating the celebratory narratives promoted by the University, the city, and the region.

In History, we offer our senior students an opportunity to apply their research skills in work settings outside the university—at museums, historical societies, and public archives (HIS498Y5). This internship opportunity is a chance for students to develop skills, contribute to the historical record and make contact with the local historical community.
